Impressive not only in scale but in composition as well, this two story library boasts and assortment of unique features. One of the most obvious features is the hand sewn South American cow hide rug. Serving as an anchor for multiple seating areas, this rug provides a calm backdrop to various gold hued fabrics in texture and pattern. The chandelier and simple sheers provide a refreshing approach to what could be a dark library.

Avoiding the stereotypical approach to home theater design, the design team developed a formal and classic space using lightened tones and textures of gold. The most technically advanced room in the house, working with the audiovisual company to conceal and accommodate a multitude of mechanical and electrical equipment. A high tech scrolling marquee may be programmed to showcase the movie of the evening. Custom elements include decorative iron grilles, wool carpeting, leather seating, decorative millwork and stained glass ceiling fixture which provides indirect lighting. When not watching movies doubles as a stage and backdrop for karaoke night.
